A Guide For Parents

Creating Modern Solutions for Special Needs Children

Taking advantage of the digital age that we live in, we have taken modern methods and stepped it up a notch. Video modeling is a means of demonstrating social skills with children who have difficulty with this task, such as children with ADHD, autism or Asperger's Syndrome. These children tend to be more visual learners, and as a result, video modeling has been a successful means of therapy for many special needs children.

What Makes the VISSOL System different?

Rather than use specialized DVDs that can be rather expensive, we utilize the power of the Internet to bring the best in video modeling for social skills right to your home. All learning modules and videos are found on our internet website, www.VISSOL.com, or on our iPad app, and are updated regularly to be current. There are no upgrades to buy, and it can be accessed from anywhere you can find an internet access point. VISSOL also is adding new videos at all times, so there are many to choose from for different scenarios for your child to learn from, allowing them to see a social situation from several perspectives.

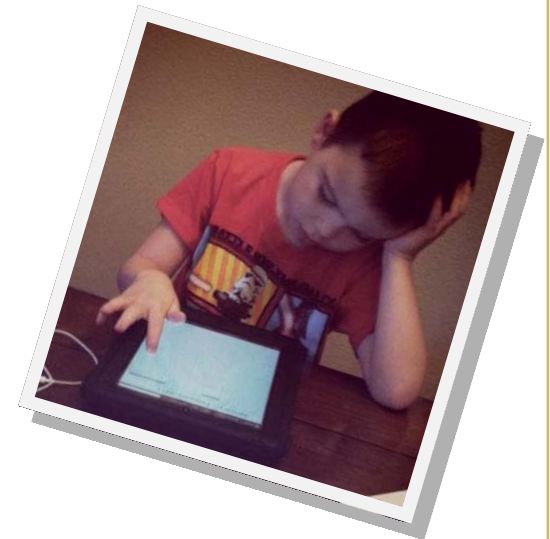

Easy to Use, Easy to Access, Therapist Supported

- VISSOL can be accessed through any computer that has internet access and a standard browser.
- VISSOL is easy to learn, therefore it's easy to help work with your child through the learning modules.
- Therapists support using video modeling, and access can be used jointly in therapy sessions as well as at home.
- VISSOL's tracking system helps both parents and teachers see where the child has mastered a concept, and where they need help from the same reporting system.

Affordable Pricing

Unlike expensive DVDs, VISSOL is accessed via an affordable monthly subscription fee. Yearly subscriptions are available as well at a discounted price. Ask your teacher or therapist if VISSOL System access is included in your child's IEP for therapy, as it might already be paid for by your school.
